FUND MANAGEMENT ANALYSIS

MARKET ENVIRONMENT

- Global equity markets delivered strong and broad-based gains in September 2025.
- Emerging markets outperformed global equities, led by notable strength in China, Taiwan, and Korea.
- AI-related stocks led the market, buoyed by a series of new deals and partnerships in AI infrastructure and computing, which further reinforced the sector's strong momentum.
- US markets also benefited from the Federal Reserve's first rate cut of the year and a decline in Treasury yields.
- The US dollar weakened as investors diversified away from the currency amid growing concerns over US institutional credibility.
- Safe-haven assets saw renewed demand, propelling gold prices up nearly 11%, approaching USD 4,000 per ounce.

PERFORMANCE COMMENTARY

- Over the month of September the fund had a strong positive absolute return in line with its benchmark.
- Our positive relative performance came mostly from stock selection in our Industrial Tech & Digital Infrastructure theme as well as Tech Materials.
- Broadcom, Celestica and Nvidia were among our largest contributors in the Industrial Tech & Digital Infrastructure space, driven by further investor enthusiasm for AI and the increased capital expenditure on AI infrastructure.
- In the Tech Materials space, TSMC, the indispensable partner in the global tech supply chain was our largest contributor to performance.

OUTLOOK AND INVESTMENT STRATEGY

- In September, we continued building our positions in Software and IT services. We initiated a position in Accenture, Atlassian, Gitlab and Twilio while we sold out of SAP and Adobe. These changes were undertaken driven by current valuations and entry points in these names.
- To reinforce our weights in the Cloud & Software space we took profit in names within the industrial tech & digital infrastructure bucket such as Astera, Broadcom, Celestica and Comfort Systems.
- In the current environment we believe it is important to look at all segments of Technology and capture entry points in areas we think demonstrate undervalued growth.
